Reviews

It is just one of the best publications. This can be for anyone who states that there was not a well worth reading through. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

Stapleton is seated at writing table in act of closing a letter. Rings for butler. (Enter Harvey, the butler.) Stapleton - (Reading letter; seals it and hands to butler). Harvey, do you think you can get this letter to the post office in time to catch the Limited for Boston? Harvey - (Glancing at the clock). The Limited goes through here at eight o clock, Sir, and the mail closes about a half hour earlier. It is now 7:15 - I ought to make it in ten minutes, and have five minutes to spare. Stapleton - Don t let anything delay you, for that is an important letter. (Harvey starts to go.) And, Harvey, you had better inquire at the office to make sure, and let me know. (Harvey starts a second time.) And, Harvey, (handing him a coin) buy a special delivery stamp and paste it on the letter before mailing. Harvey - As you direct, Sir. (Exit Harvey.) Stapleton - If Masters is at his hotel, he will get my letter before 9:30 tonight, and if no mischief has been done by that time, maybe we can get our breath for another day. (Walks about room.) Masters is a good fellow - a brilliant mind, thoroughly unselfish and absolutely on the square, but his radicalism is becoming a serious menace to our practice. I sometimes believe he is right, and I envy him his frank and fearless advocacy of what he believes, but in this day and age no man...
